New England influence appears to be centering around Massachusetts. New Hampshire will play her own hand.

RAILROAD MEN DISLIKE FINDING OF COMMISSION

Demand Public Hearing at Which They Can Refute Alleged Impressions

Concord, Feb. 19.—The report of the Public Service Commission, made public in the press yesterday in which the pass system was scathingly denounced is reported to have aroused local railroad employees to a point where they demand that their side be heard.

The first step taken in this direction was in the shape of a demand on the Public Service, made on behalf of the railroad men by Robert A. Jordan for a public hearing at which time the railroad men may state their arguments against the Commission's findings.

Mr. Jordan interprets the report on the abolishment of ticket agencies, in 21 stations of the Boston and Maine system in New Hampshire as equivalent to charging the railroad workers with being "loafers on the job." Mr. Jordan announced that action backing up his stand would be taken by all sixteen of the local railroad organizations and he declared that "railroad men generally are very much wrought up over the report of the Commission."

Boston Chamber of Commerce Committee Finds It Would Benefit Canada Rather Than This Section

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Feb. 19.—Strenuous opposition to the Great Lake St. Lawrence Tidewater project by the New England Traffic League is urged in a report by a special committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce made public today. "Your committee has made every effort to study this water from a broad minded view point," the report says. "It has ever had to be mindful of the fact that study of the problem was not mainly for determining what the re-

New York Health Authorities Remove Newcomers to Hospitals

(By Associated Press)

New York, Feb. 19.—Thirty-three vermin-infected immigrants reaching this city by train, were removed today to hospitals for delousing. More than 200 immigrants arriving at steamship piers and at railroad stations from other parts were examined by city health authorities during the last 24 hours. Warned by health officers at Philadelphia that a tidalload of immigrants was on its way to Hoboken, New York health authorities, with the aid of the Hoboken police, cordoned the newcomers and saw them here. Health Commissioner Copeland said that a health inspector had been assigned to inspect foreign ships to be sure it was free from vermin.

PRES. ELECT HARDING HAS BUSY DAY

(By Associated Press)

EL. Augustus, Pa., Feb. 19.—President-elect Harding laid his uncompleted cabinet slate aside for a while today and centered his attention on politics rather than men. His consultations during the day concerned chiefly two public questions which are expected to loom largest before the new administration, namely taxation and foreign relations. Immediate decision on both of these questions are to be made soon after the change of government at Washington. Today's conference may have much to do with the actual forming of some of Mr. Harding's first cabinet acts as chief executive.

WARM WINTER WEATHER STARTS BIRDS BREEDING

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Feb. 19.—Birds are singing, mating and breeding in the north woods, Edward Howe Forbush, state ornithologist, said today. The unusual warmth of the winter had turned the birds much earlier than usual. Mating has begun, and several nests of young have been found. The sparrows are beginning to appear in numbers.

SHIPPING BOARD INVESTIGATION IS BROUGHT TO END

Report Will Show That Government Cannot Operate Vessels in Competition With Private Interests

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 19.—Congressional investigation of the Shipping Board ended today with the examination of Senator Payne, a former chairman of the board by the special house committee. A report on the results of the inquiry will be submitted to the house before March 4th. The inquiry has been continued intermittently for 18 months. Senator Payne told the committee that when he became chairman of the board after the war he found accounts in bad shape and that he caused the dismissal of several officials and abolished several bureaus. Mr. Payne said he was convinced that the government could not successfully operate merchant vessels in competition with private shipping interests. He also said American passenger lines could not compete with foreign liners unless permitted to sell intoxicants during the voyages.

QUESTION RIGHT OF ROADS TO RAISE FARES

(By Associated Press)

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The constitutionality of the Interstate Commerce Act was assailed and the right of the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue an order permitting the railroads operating in New York state to increase fares within the state 25 per cent was questioned by States Attorney General Newton in a bill of complaint filed in the U. S. District court here today. The action seeks to enjoin the commission from enforcing its increased fare order. A companion action with the same ultimate decision is pending in the state court.

WOULD CUT OUT PASSES ON THE B. & M.

In the report of the New Hampshire Public Service Commission, the following is mentioned relative to free transportation, in which it is also recommended the abolition of passes on the B. & M.

Having no final say over the rates, or continuance of service, the owners of railroads find their field of activity much more restricted in the management of their property than do the owners of private industries. This is stated merely to point out the difference in which the Boston & Maine Railroad finds itself, and not as an argument against governmental regulation.

While thoroughly convinced that the officers of the Boston & Maine Railroad are not only justified in the economy program outlined at the hearing, which includes the discontinuance of the agencies at the stations under consideration, but would be derelict in their duty to the owners of the property if they did otherwise, we are more strongly convinced, if that is possible, that the railroad's first economy should be to discontinue free service.

We refer to the pernicious practice, sanctioned by the law, it is true, but none the less unjust and indefensible, of issuing free passes to its officers and employees and their families, to its surgeons, physicians, and attorneys-at-law, when not travelling on railroad business.

All of these classes are paid for the work they do for the railroad, as if they were in a private car. It is not a question of expense to the railroad, but of expense to the public. We are not saying that this practice is often made use of, but the point is that the privilege should not exist.

Why should an attorney or physician who is paid for the work he does for the railroad be granted the transportation when not travelling on railroad business? The words "free service" are outworn in the vocabulary of railroad and public utility regulation. The reason, of course, is because free service is discriminatory. Justice requires that a railroad of public utility should serve all of the public alike. This cannot be where one man pays his fare and his neighbor does not.

All the revenue of the railroad comes from the public. If part of the public does not pay for the service it receives, then the cost of that service must be taken care of by those who do pay. If one wishes to pay for someone's railroad ticket voluntarily, no one can object, but to be forced to do so by the railroad is another matter.

Moreover, such a practice is unfair as between those enjoying the free transportation privilege. Take an employee with five in his family and another with no family. The family free transportation privilege is worth considerably more to the one, while to the other employee it is of no value. Yet both are doing the same kind of work and receiving the same pay per day.

No one should ride on a pass who is not travelling in the interest of the railroad. In order to prevent any abuses, however, a better arrangement would be to have the one travelling on railroad business pay his fare and the family subsidized by the railroad upon proper bills being presented.

WOULD NAME ROAD AFTER 'LIVE ONE'

Concord, N. H., Feb. 19.—Albert W. (1917) Noone believes New Hampshire should name its highways after "live ones as well as dead ones." In a statement given out at his home in Portsmouth Friday he says he is against naming the main highway through the state for Daniel Webster, saying that a memorial is not needed to remember the great statesman.

He would name the highways after men who have done great things for the state and would consent to having the south side road from Nashua to Keene named after himself. If the state did this he says he would erect a statue of himself on Temple Mount at his own expense and those driving along the road could gaze upon it. If the state didn't care for this kind of a gift he is ready to build a decorative arch properly inscribed if they change this road to the Noone highway.

SUFFERED SIX YEARS

Mrs. Stoll Tells Women How She Found Relief From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa.—I suffered for six years with every month, had vomiting spells the first two days, and was unable to do my work. I read in your book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am a widow and recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and my daughters.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in some cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those dreadful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.

DREAMS. I dreamt wild winter winds are still, Over my buds the spring breeze fly. Hope paints the golden daffodil In splendid splendor, by and by.

I wake to find new-fallen snow, Veiled in wild storm my shining skies. No daffodils or lilies blow, Yet summer glows in Mary's eyes.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and biliary liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "feature" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night for

BRITISH LABOR WRITERS PREDICT WAGE REDUCTION

London.—Labor correspondents on various London newspapers assert the cost of living has declined in Great Britain and that a reduction of wages is inevitable. They report decreases in wages already have occurred in cases where sliding scales of pay were based on the selling prices of the goods produced.

These wage cuts, however, are mostly in trades which are poorly organized. There is a good deal of speculation among the labor writers as to the attitude of workers in highly organized trades when they are called upon to accept a lower wage in accordance with previously arranged plans based upon the cost of living.

The Ministry of Labor official figures on the cost of living for working class families show that at the end of December the percentage was 169 higher than in 1914 against the November figure of 176, while for January it was expected to reach 165.

This, while alleviating the lot of the worker to some extent and assisting employers, will not solve the present acute unemployment situation and many agreements have been come to during the past week or two whereby workers have decided to go on short time or accept less money in order to avoid a total closing down of works. The unions, from masters and representatives of the men's union have met and the latter decided to accept a reduction of wages from 22 shillings and eight pence to 19 and seven pence a day, so that work may be resumed in the iron mines.

The number of unemployed in Great Britain is given on Labor Exchange books as 860,000 while other authorities place the total of people without work at 1,500,000.

Short time is soon to go into force in the government dock yards and other government establishments.

BARGE AFIRE IN CANAL

Sandwich, Feb. 18.—The coast guards of the Sandwich station turned firemen today and probably saved the lives of the crew of the barge Musconetcong. The station lookout discovered that the barge at anchor in the Cape Cod Canal was on fire and Captain Sullivan and his men boarded her, awoke the crew and fought the flames. Three men in the canal were called to pour water on the fire which was in the fore-castle. It was believed the barge would be a total loss. The Musconetcong was owned by the Atlantic Coastwise Transportation Company of New York. She was one of the two of three bound light from Boston to New York.

REFUSES TO RECOGNIZE THE TREATY

(By Associated Press)
Buenos Aires, Feb. 18.—Argentina had refused the request of the Allies that she take means to prevent the exporting of war materials from Germany to Argentina in violation of the Treaty of Versailles. The government takes the ground that the country can not take part in any stipulations between other countries.

The fact that such a request had been made by the Allies was disclosed today in the reply of the Foreign Minister to the Italian Ambassador, who as the dean of the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy made the presentation.

HUGHES AND HARDING IN CONFERENCE

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 18.—Speeches in initiating the foreign policy of the next Administration will be passed in final review late today at a conference between the President-elect and Chas. E. Hughes, who is expected to be the next Secretary of State.

Among the problems to be discussed at the conference is the question of Mr. Harding's inaugural address to be devoted to the plan for an association of nations. The address is expected to refer only in a general way to the plan but it is understood the President-elect wants to have Mr. Hughes advise before he frames the exact language of this expression.

Diplomatic appointments also are to be considered, although it is believed that Mr. Harding will reserve final judgment on most of the important diplomatic selections until after inauguration.

Mr. Harding's visit occupied the center of attention today at Mr. Harding's headquarters here. The morning being devoted to a number of miscellaneous appointments and to a continuation of the President-elect's conference with Thurgood L. Dewey of Ohio, who is understood to have been selected for Attorney General. It is now reported that A. T. Lee of Kentucky will be Secretary of the Navy and Herbert Hoover Secretary of Commerce.

MORE TYPHUS FEVER FOUND IN NEW YORK

Cornland, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Three children in an Italian family here have been found to be suffering from typhus fever, Dr. Edward S. Godfrey, chief of the division of communicable diseases of the State Board of Health, announced today. The children with their mother arrived in New York on Jan. 2 last from Naples and came to Cornland on Jan. 13, the first of the children becoming ill three days later. New York, Feb. 18.—Eleven typhus-infected immigrants and a man suffering from a disease other than typhus, who arrived here today, after having been admitted to this country at Boston, were ordered to a hospital by city health authorities for observation and treatment. Six women, three children and a man were taken from a train at the Pennsylvania station. The other two were picked up at the Grand Central.

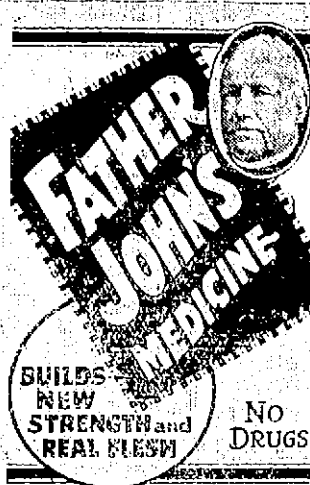

SUICIDE RATHER THAN SEE CHILDREN STARVE

New York.—Fathers and mothers in some of the famine-stricken districts of China are committing suicide rather than watch their children starve to death, says a report received at the headquarters of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions here from Dr. Ralph A. Ward, one of its missionaries in China.

"Multitudes flee from the famine-stricken districts only to die of exposure and hunger in distant cities where rice prices are prohibitive," wrote Dr. Ward.

"Adult-bodied men, old women and children scramble over each other in the streets in the rush for a ration of food by a passerby. Children are crushed at stations of food distribution."

Dr. Ward repeats the assertion previously published that 1,000 persons are dying daily in the famine-stricken districts and adds: "More people are starving in China this winter than perished on the battlefield of wrote of visiting many villages where there was no sign of food or grain of any kind. There was nothing but desolation," he went on. "The people were sitting around, hopeless, discouraged and listless. They knew there is nothing to do but starve and end the struggle."

At least 10,000 Chinese Christians are among the famine sufferers, the Rev. Lyman L. Hall reported in a letter. In many cases, he said, the church membership has been hopelessly scattered.

Officials of the missionary board fear that the famine will greatly retard the work of missionaries in some areas where they have gained a foothold only by years of effort.

WOMEN REFUSE TO VOTE FOR DISARMAMENT

Washington, Feb. 18.—A proposal that the National Woman's party throw its full support to the fight for world disarmament was overwhelmingly defeated at the organization's convention today after a sharp debate. The convention then took up the preliminary report of the resolutions committee specifying a straight out federal program for the future.

A fight over a proposal to pledge the organization to work for immediate world disarmament, the suggestion was embodied in the minority report from the resolutions committee as to the future policy of the party.

Mrs. C. G. Scott presented the minority report and Mrs. Harriet Brown of Iowa opened the debate under the five-minute rule, urging its adoption.

"Unless you adopt it and go forward quickly," Mrs. Brown declared, "you have nothing else but purely feminist programs for the rest of your lives, for there will be none but women left on earth. All of the world, prepared for war with poison gas, germ, battle ships and armies. And that next war they talk about it coming soon unless you women prevent it. You had a long way towards preventing it if you adopt pass resolutions giving notice of your intention to defeat in the next election all congressmen who will not pledge themselves to disarmament."

"You women who have never borne a child, who have never lost a child, what do you mean by talking as you have that the question of disarmament is a feminist question?"

Mrs. John Rogers of New York attacked the statement that women could prevent war. She declared the

Judge Landis in the Limelight

Judge Kenesha Mountain Landis of Chicago has been much in the public eye of late because of the questioning in high quarters of the propriety, or impropriety, of his serving as arbiter in the baseball world while holding a position on the federal bench, and also because of the position he took in connection with a young bank employee in a western city who embezzled a large sum of money.

Indicating with this case Judge Landis took the ground that the directors of the bank were also as culpable as the young man himself, because of what he considered the meagerness of the salary paid, which was $90 a month. The embezzler was let off easily because of early repentance and restitution of the stolen funds. This was much in his favor after he had committed the wrong and entitled him to as lenient treatment as was possible under the circumstances, but there are those who felt that Judge Landis was wrong in virtually excusing the criminal on the ground that the offender's salary was so small as to almost justify crime.

And the point against this sort of thing is well taken. It is not new. Such defense has been raised before in similar cases, but the principle is wrong and should never be defended by men in high standing or men of any class. It is a dangerous thing to teach or intimate, that the meagerness of any salary forms an excuse for theft. As one prominent newspaper says in discussing the question, "Stealing is stealing," and there is no excuse for it aside from the pangs of starvation. The same paper tells the truth when it says that there are comparatively few wage or salary owners who feel that they are paid enough. If small pay, or pay that is considered small, were to be regarded as an extension in cases of stealing and embezzlement there would soon be chaos in the business world and thousands of employees in positions of trust would speedily come to ruin.

It is unfortunate that a man of Judge Landis' standing and official position should have given expression to such a sentiment. One U. S. senator feels that he ought to be impeached for the position he took. While it is probable that few will take the matter so seriously, it is well that it should receive public attention and be subjected to deserved censure. A man who takes a position in a bank or anywhere else is under obligation to faithfully perform his duties regardless of the size of his salary. If he feels that he is not paid enough it is his privilege to go where he can do better. To imagine that the condition warrants him in laying his hand on the property of his employer is all wrong. Such a view should never be encouraged in any quarter, and especially should it be frowned upon by representatives of the law.

Judge Landis made a mistake when he uttered the words that led to the discussion, and it is well that the view he took should be challenged, as it has been. It is not to be expected that he will be impeached for "high crimes and misdemeanors," as has been proposed in some quarters, but if the incident teaches the lesson that it is not only improper, but positively dangerous, to encourage crime by excusing or apologizing for it, this conspicuous view will not have been without value.

Navy men were made aware that the trimming process had begun when they learned that the naval committee had made no appropriation for automobiles this year. When the pruning knife is applied something has to fall, and apparently the appropriating powers felt that the navy department could get along without automobiles as well as any other branch of the service.

The Chamber of Commerce of one Massachusetts city calls the attention of Governor Cox to the increasing burden of taxation and asks him to "do all he can to prevent unnecessary expenditures." But the trouble is to get those having the handling of the public funds to recognize any proposed expenditure as unnecessary.

The Family Welfare Association is having a busy winter, but is discharging its duties as efficiently as its means will permit. It is doing good work among people affected by the slack in business, and is entitled to encouragement and support.

Jess Willard wants to meet Dempsey again and notifies the powers that be in the fist world that he is not going to waste any time on minor "white hopes." It is Dempsey or no one for him, and he has $30,000 that is ready to talk.

The New York legislature is talking of repealing the daylight saving law and giving the towns and cities of the state local option on the matter. That would result in a nice condition of things.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

The Public Funds

Editor Herald:—Under date of Feb. 11 I sent you communication regarding rent paid by Veterans' Men and have yet to see it published, yet your paper claims to be fair and impartial and asks for complaints and suggestions from the public.

It looked to me as if there was a lack in the city's finances and felt it my duty as a citizen about to become a taxpayer here to call public attention to it.

The communication not being signed and received without letter showing who the author was, The Herald must necessarily of course have some rules in order to safeguard its own rights and to know the facts. Here is the communication referred to.

Editor Herald:—Can you advise through the columns of your paper if the Veterans' Men pay the city any rent for their club house on Maplewood avenue and if not what have they ever done for the city to be entitled to their quarters gratis?

It is a well known fact that the greater part of their membership never saw active fire service and are not entitled to be called Veterans' Men and have the city furnish them with cozy quarters free.

Why not turn these rooms over to the Veterans of Foreign Wars who fought for their country at a time when they were needed and you may be assured the quarters will receive excellent care. Let's hear from others on this subject.

A WAR VETERAN.

Kittely People

Editor Herald:—A father had a family of sons who were perpetually quarrelling among themselves. When he failed to heal their disputes by his exhortations, he determined to give them a practical illustration of the evils of division, and for this purpose he one day told them to bring him a bundle of sticks. When they had done so, he placed the fagot into the hands of each of them in succession, and ordered them to break it in pieces. They had tried with all their strength, and were not able to do it. He next unloosed the fagot, and took the sticks separately, one by one, and again put them into their hands, on which they broke them easily. He then addressed them in these words: "My sons, if you are of one mind, and unite to assist me, you will be as strong as iron."

fagot, uninjured by all the attempts of your enemies; but if you are divided among yourselves, you will be broken as easily as these sticks."

"We are all believers in good government—we all believe in electing our leaders." That quotation is all right, save for one word. We know our strong points fairly well. Sometimes we forget that friends, neighbors, and even casual acquaintances know most of our weak points. The elected are not always the elect.

It is an honor to be elected to public office, but that honor carries duties, and duties mean responsibilities. It requires diligent representation and faithful service to all the people and to all sections. I hear you—"That's a blue dream." Utopia—Millennium hasn't come. If the plan is square to us, why not be square to the idea and act for it? E. S. FERNALD.

SERVES HOT LUNCHEONS TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

The pupils of the Pharus School have been especially happy this week, as through the aid of the teacher, Miss Gertrude Carey, it has been arranged to serve something warm to add to the cold luncheon these children bring on each school day. The building is equipped with a coal stove belonging to the Portsmouth Pharus Association, and Miss Carey says no reason why the children should not have some hot food or drink with their lunch, as long as she was willing to prepare it. The matter was discussed with the children, and the teacher and different pupils take turns in bringing the articles necessary for this addition to the lunch, and all enjoy it, as it makes the hot lunch more like a real meal and the little folks have at home.

Friday, Miss Carey served tomato soup and crackers. She prepared the hot food, and the children in groups take turns in washing the dishes. Another day hot cocoa was served.

This idea will be carried out as often as convenient, and has the approval of Supl. Slayton of the public schools, and also of the parents, as some of the children live a good distance from the school.

Dept. of Labor Report Shows Drop in January Reaches Six Per Cent

Washington, Feb. 19.—An average decline of three per cent in retail food prices in January as compared with December was reported today by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor. WHAT IT WILL MEAN IN TAXES

Augusta, Feb. 18.—There is much interest in the large amounts of money which the various cities and towns of Maine will be called upon to raise by taxation if the proposed plan of President Morris McDonald, for relieving the Maine Central Railroad of its financial burden is adopted by the present Legislature. There is a very general sentiment that everything must be done to aid the road in its difficulty, but the fact that it will place a great tax burden on the state is not being overlooked by the legislators here at Augusta.

Recently the Express announced that it would add $461,576.62 to Portland's burden for the next 2 1/2 years, or to be exact, 30 months.

Today it was able to obtain other figures showing what the taxes of several other cities and towns in Maine would be increased for the same period. Here is the list:

Bangor	$141,317.43
Leviston	136,163.43
Hath	63,161.79

Calais	16,331.05

The added tax burden to each of the 16 counties if the measure is adopted also was obtained today. This list is as follows:

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

As a sign of farewell greeting to Miss Annie Campbell, teacher of the military class at the Y. W. C. A., at the close of the dinner in the Cafeteria Friday evening, she was given a pleasant surprise by a number of her friends. Miss Campbell is to leave for Boston, and was presented with a surprise package, which made no little fun for the party, and a box of candy, ice cream and cake was then served by her group of friends, and it was a pleasant little social affair. Miss Campbell has made a number of friends at the Y. W. C. A. House, who are sorry she is to leave the city.

DEACON DUBBS PRESENTED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Large Audience Pleased With Comedy Given For Benefit of Athletic Asso.

There was a large and well pleased audience at the high school ball on Friday evening, for the presentation of the comedy drama "Deacon Dubbs" by the high school dramatic club. It was for the benefit of the Athletic Association and a good sum was secured. The play was exceptionally well presented, and every member of the cast is entitled to great credit for the splendid work they have been doing. Sub-master Soudie and his many well felt proud of the successful presentation.

The play was in three acts, the synopsis of the story being as follows:

Act I.—Rose Cottage on an afternoon in June, Yennie Venson, the Swedish hired girl, wants to borrow some money and decides to bid on the hired man at the auction, as "he had a pretty good looking feller." Miss Philippa, the landlady, is the auctioneer. Rose and Amos, "Out of the broken ruins of their fair blossoms," grow. God's first men is a white rose. The Deacon arrives from Sorghum Center, State of West Virginia. "Long, long, long pussy's in the well." The farm is sold to Rose Raleigh for two thousand dollars. The defeat of Rawdon Crawley.

Act II.—Same scene, a morning in August. Wedding bells. "Happy is the bride the sun shines on." Deacon and Yennie bring wedding presents. Miss Philippa takes a nap with disheveled results. Yennie is scared. "Your face it bane put on backy riss." Back from the grave. "You are my wife. Take off that bridal wreath, that sparkling necklace." "Who is this man?" The Deacon arrests Rawdon Crawley.

Act III.—Same scene, a year later and in Autumn. The "husking bee" songs and merriment by the villagers. "Rawdon Crawley has escaped!"

The following was the cast:

Deacon Dubbs, from Sorghum Center, West Virginia Arthur Parsons, 21
Miss Philippa Popover, with both eyes on the Deacon Pauline Taylor, 21
Yennie Venson, the hired girl from Sweden Marjory Todd, 21
Deacon Jones, a country preacher James Piper, 22
Emily Dale, the eldest girl in town Anna Drew, 22
Rawdon Crawley, a wolf in sheep's clothing Kenneth Young, 21
Amos Coleman, the Deacon's nephew, a young lawyer Harry Ramsey, 21
Rose Raleigh, the brave little school ma'am Eunice James, 21
Major Moses McNutt, auctioneer and justice of the peace Benton Hoyt, 21
Trixie Coleman, full of mischief Marjory Sausser, 21

The play was finely staged, the wood scene being especially attractive and painted recently by minutes of the naval prison and was loaned through the courtesy of the management of the Colonial Theatre.

Arthur Parsons had the title role and made a pronounced hit as the Deacon. He carried out the part of the old deacon well and made much fun for the audience. Pauline Taylor as Philippa Popover, was excellent in the part and added much to the success of the play. Eunice James as Rose Raleigh, the brave little school ma'am, well took her part. Marjory Todd as Yennie Venson had a character part, which although difficult, was well done. Anna Drew as Emily Dale made a pleasing appearance and acted well. Marjory Sausser as Trixie Coleman made no little fun for the audience. James Piper in the part of Deacon Jones, added not a little to the success of the play and every member of the cast did good work and helped make the play the success it was. A good sum will be realized from the affair for the Athletic Association of the school.

Music was furnished by the High School orchestra, under the direction of Ernest Ethrick, supervisor of music in the local schools. The selections were pleasing and well rendered, adding much to the success of the entertainment. Applause was hearty during the evening and the large audience was highly entertained.

B. & M. TO LET 24 STATION AGENTS GO

Buildings Will Be Kept Open and Heated But No Tickets
Sold

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—The State Public Service Commission issued an order yesterday allowing the Boston and Maine Railroad to discontinue the services of agents at 24 stations in New Hampshire. The buildings will be kept open and heated, and tickets will not be sold or freight handled. This arrangement will continue in effect until such time as the financial condition of the railroad service improves, or the necessity for the service to accommodate the public shall require its restoration.

The order of the commission which was written by Chairman William T. Campbell in a statement of four thousand words discussing in detail the situation of the Boston and Maine railroad. The road, it says, cannot go out of business, cannot increase its revenue by raising its rates and cannot reduce the wages of its employees. The commission commends the efforts of the railroad to bring about "economy" in operation, but it says it should at once discontinue the practice of issuing passes to its employees and officers and their families.

spoke eloquently of the esteem in which Mr. Paul was held.

Taking advantage of the fine sleighing in this country, the sophomore class enjoyed a sleigh-ride party to York Village Thursday evening. Mr. Morse, of the Commercial Department, acted as chaperon. Refreshments were served at the Box Store.

Thinking the idea was a good one, the seniors followed suit on Wednesday evening, taking a trip to Dover. Miss Langley acting as chaperon.

Harry Hays visited the Academy on Friday.

Lloyd C. Bailey, a member of the Freshman class, is critically ill at the Maine State Hospital. The doctor's sympathy of the entire school is extended to him and his family.

WHY ROAD IS BAD

There seems to be some misapprehension in the minds of a few regarding the condition of the state highway between Portsmouth and Kittery. A writer in the Portsmouth Herald asks, "Why the deplorable condition of the State road from Portsmouth to the Portland-Saco concrete road?"

"We can imagine of no reason why men who know nothing about highway building and highway construction should adopt such a course to say nothing of men who are supposed to be specially trained in that sort of work."

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS DOVER HIGH TONIGHT

The High school and Dover High school old-time rivals will hold the basketball stage at Greenman's hall this evening. Dover played the Thornton Academy to two extra, over time periods at Thornton, and has won several of its best games. They of course would rather defeat Portsmouth than any team they play, for the rivalry is just as great as ever. Last year they had the better of the local high school in basketball and tonight the locals will try and demonstrate that things have changed, and the down river team is the best. The game will be played intercollegiate rules and it will be fast.

In addition a fast preliminary game will be played. All efforts to bring the building 89 and the Marines together failed. The navy yard team was perfectly willing to play but the Marines failed to live up to their challenge.

NAVY YARD'S EFFICIENCY JUSTIFIES MORE WORK

Yard Now Stands at Head of List in Reduction of Overhead Cost and Builds Submarines Cheaper and Faster Than Private Yards--Open Meeting Votes to Raise Funds to Assist in Securing work

The Metal Trades Council held an open meeting at Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening, which attracted a large crowd of Navy Yard workmen, some of the local merchants and professional men and others interested in the navy yard. The purpose of the meeting was to bring before the workmen and the citizens the benefits that may be secured from everybody co-operating for the benefit of the yard, and to secure the now much needed work.

The meeting was opened by President P. N. Statten of the Metal Trades Council and he stated the object of the meeting. He called attention to what had been done and of the necessity of doing everything possible to secure more work, especially shipbuilding work. Reference was made to the fact that the "O" boats had been sent to Boston and that other work would be taken from the yard.

The special guest, Mayor J. W. Hartford, former Governor of the State, and Captain L. S. Adams, the Industrial Manager, and Senator G. L. Briggs and all spoke.

Former Gov. Bartlett was the first speaker, and he spoke on the condition of the country in regard to disarmament and that it was the worst time at the present time.

Mayor Hartford spoke on what the yard as Portsmouth plant industry means to the city, and the people of the surrounding country. He said that we all are concerned in the future of our great industry and of the necessity of placing before the proper people the fact that this is the best naval station on the country, and to drive home to those in charge of distributing work, either naval or shipping work, that this yard can do the work as cheap, better and as quick as any other yard or private shipyard. Wash. Post now recognizes the fact that the workmen of the Portsmouth navy yard are giving an honest day's work and that their Industrial Manager is seeing that the work is efficient and turned out at a cost which has not been duplicated by other yards. We have the right and the honors to back up our claim of efficiency, and it is up to us to see that this northern yard gets its rightful share of the work. Also the new improvements, such as quay wall, dry docks and other things. No talk of disarmament is going to interfere with building of ships for the next hundred or possible thousand years, and the navy yard here can build ships with or without guns as cheap and better than any yard in the country. He said that that while we don't want to take away any of the credits or work going to the Boston yard, we don't want to let Boston take out work, and to remember always that Boston is looking out for itself first and the Portsmouth navy yard comes a long way here. He paid a high compliment to the efficient representatives we have in Washington, Senators Moses and Keyes and said that would do everything possible, but first we must get together and do for ourselves first. He promised his hearty cooperation as an official or private citizen in anything that was for the best interest of the yard and he would always consider it an honor to do it.

Captain L. S. Adams, the Industrial Manager was given a royal reception when called upon to speak and he said in opening that all that he could do was to give the yard a system to work under, the rest was up to the workmen themselves. He said in reference to the "O" boats that they had been sent to this yard originally because this yard was the experts on submarines and could repair at least cost and in quicker time than any other yard in the country. They had however been shifted to Boston, they might possibly still come here, but there was strong hopes for it was generally known that they had been ordered to Boston for docking and just repairs, where as the original order here was for a general overhauling. He said that he could not agree with the statement of the Chairman that the future of the yard was at stake, but only a temporary depression, was threatened.

He said that the future of the yard after in their thoughts. He cited the case of the Old Constitution being taken from the yard and now the "O" boats being taken after being ordered by the Navy Department, as was demonstrated when they granted this yard the three big submarines, the only question being asked, was what time would it take the yard to build six of these, the biggest submarines ever attempted by this country? This was because the yard had proven that they could not only build submarines cheaper, and better, but quicker than any other yard or any private shipyard. This was illustrated in the submarines S-1, 2 and 3. No. 1 was built at the Fore River yard and it took in commission as yet No. 2 was built at the Lake Torpedo Co. and was here being made into a submarine. S-3 was built at the Portsmouth navy yard, had been in commission two years and had passed every test. We have delivered the goods and have a right to demand the work, but with our past record is fine, we must still keep going said Mr. Adams. This is not the time to stop, continue to improve our efficiency, refuse the over head and there will be nothing to it.

He quoted figures to show that the Portsmouth navy yard shows the lowest overhead cost, and that the yard stands as lowest in the cost of several kinds of work, notably the foundry work, and this in face of the fact that there was but a small amount of work. The figures presented by Mr. Adams shows that Portsmouth is No. 1 on the list, recently issued. The rating is as follows: Portsmouth, 79 per cent; Puget Sound Yard 92 per cent; Philadelphia 88; Mare Island 84; Boston 104; New York 104; Norfolk 108; Charlestown 128 and Washington 131. Mr. Adams explained that the overhead is the expense of supervision, upkeep of the yard, light and power, etc., as compared with the productive work of the yard. He called attention to the workmen that Philadelphia had reduced their overhead from 200 to 85, so that the Portsmouth yard would have to still keep improving. He said that what was needed now was Shipping Board work and he was confident that this yard could do the work just as cheap as anyone or the private shipyard. He spoke of the report of a recent Shipping Board Inspector's visit to the yard, on the work being done there now. He made mention that the work was being done Shipping Board style and that in all of his visits he had not seen a man loafing on the ships. He spoke briefly of the fitting up of the old naval hospital for headquarters for the crews and officers of the submarines and said that in a few weeks the yard would be able to care for any amount of submarine work.

W. N. Melton, president of the Central Labor Union and Senator G. L. Briggs were other speakers. W. J. Donohue of the Metal Trades gave some interesting figures of the amount of money paid out in wages at the yard and the difference that the number of men already discharged would mean.

At the conclusion of the meeting after Mr. Statten had outlined what was being done at the Boston yard, it was voted to raise a fund, with which to send a man to Washington and to keep the Senators supplied with the proper data to secure Shipping Board work and to work for the advantage of the yard. Mr. Statten was elected to represent the workmen. Mr. W. N. Burroughs was elected treasurer and a board of three trustees was elected to supervise any expenditure of the funds so collected.

The following Trustees were elected: A. L. Case, Mrs. John C. McDonough and Mr. Donahue.
